

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The dialysis station comprises several patient places (10) each of which is provided with a dialyzer (12) and a video terminal (16). In an internal data network (21), the video terminals (16) are interlinked with each other and with a server (20) including a data base. At a physician place (24), the treatment course can be followed for each patient place (10). If necessary, the physician may intervene and prescribe a new or changed medication appearing on the video terminal (16) of the patient place. After having administered the medicine, the nurse acknowledges the administration of the medicine. The dialogue taking place between physician and nurse is documented in the scope of the treatment course.

(Fig. 1)